ADHA Welcomes New Director of Education & Research

Dr. JoAnn Gurenlian, RDH, MS, PhD, AFAAOM will be joining ADHA as the new Director of Education & Research on August 2nd. She is a past president of ADHA and International Federation of Dental Hygienists, Chair of the ADHA Task Force on Returning to Work, and a frequent speaker at ADHA's annual conference, webinars and more. Most recently she was a professor and graduate program director in the Department of Dental Hygiene at Idaho State University in Pocatello.

ADHA is proud to have Dr. Gurenlian join the organization as a leader in education and research. The new Director of Education & Research shared, "I am excited to be part of ADHA, I and look forward to supporting the educational and research interests of dental hygienists."

About the American Dental Hygienists' Association

The American Dental Hygienists' Association (ADHA) is the largest national organization representing the professional interests of the country's over 215,000 dental hygienists. Dental hygienists are preventive oral health professionals, licensed in dental hygiene, who provide educational, clinical and therapeutic services that support total health through the promotion of optimal oral health. To learn more about ADHA, dental hygiene or the link between oral health and general health, visit ADHA at www.adha.org.
